

FABERGÉ Presents the Abondance Collection

The cornucopia has been a mythological symbol of fortune, wealth and excess since time immemorial. And this extravagant beauty is reflected in the Abondance collection by famed jewellery house Fabergé.

Colourful gemstones glitter in an attempt to outshine one another, dazzling the observer with their brilliance and gladdening the eye with their lavish variety: one precious gemstone arrayed extravagantly behind the other. The gemstones appear to have been sprinkled on, glittering in a range of different cuts, sizes and colours.

What at first glance appears to be a random dip into the treasure chest is in fact the result of an artistic selection process. The intentional random effect makes the collection Abondance Necklace, 750/-white-/rose gold, fire enamel opal white, garnet, pink tourmaline, Palmera citrine, peridot, amethyst, brilliants 0,42ct, 46 cm long.

a jewellery experience that is almost peerless in nature.

Abondance comprises an exclusive set with necklace, ring, bracelet and earrings.

Erich Zimmermann Expands Pirate Collection

Existential matters are the theme of Erich Zimmermann's Pirate collection which he has expanded considerably since he introduced it last year. A fascinating double-cross between gloominess and glowing brilliance lends his new gray gold Pirate rings a truly breathtaking aura. The radiance of a magnificent brilliant-cut diamond set in the center of the gray skull serves as a symbol of eternity that sharply contrasts the classic motif of transience. In addition to rings and pendants made of gray and white gold, the Pirate line has also been expanded by new pieces crafted from white coral which, wed with vividly colorful gemstones, enter into a fascinating dialog with the morbid skull.
